Art Unit: 1714

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Walpita et al (US 5,348,990) in view of Zickler et al (US 5,308,892) and Makhija et al (US 5,541,240).

Rejection is maintained for reason of record and following response.

Walpita et al teach the instant amount of hollow spheres, and in response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

The addition of fragile fillers in the late stage (such as lower port) of processing is a prima facie obviousness. Applicant points to table 1 for unexpected result, but it is non-conclusive. Applicant's statement regarding Examples 1 and 2 and Comparative Example 1 is confusing since Table 1 does not show Comparative Example 1, but Examples 1-3. Even if Example 3 is Comparative Example 1, it has little probative value since a value of L/D is absent. Also, Applicant's statement based on said Table 1 at pages 6-7 is confusing since Examples 1 and 2 should be an applicant' invention but said statement ("it is clear that glass fillers fed into an upper portion does not yield the present invention. The obtained liquid crystal polyester had a low gravity and breakdown rate only when hollow spheres were fed into the upper portion") regards Example 1 being non-invention. Also, applicant's statement respect to Makhija, when hollow spheres are fed into the lower portion and glass filler is fed into the upper portion, the obtained composition does not have a low gravity and breakdown rate, does not make any sense since said method is used in Example 1. Also, said Table 1 is directed to instant claim 2, not 1 wherein an addition step of inorganic (glass) fillers is absent.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
